There is a heat deflector plate in fact 2 so I have a spare a BBQ grill, the reversible grill plate and a Skottel. I presume I use the heat deflector plate with the BBQ grill, but I am not sure if I should use the heat deflector plate with the reversible grill plate teflon coated and the Skottel. I dont want to use the items without the deflector plate and end up damaging the teflon on the grill plate. Thanks for any help in advance, plus any general tips for using the cadac would be most appreciated. AndyCant help with your question, but just wanted to say hello anyway Gerald Regards, AdrianThe only thing negative I would say about it is if you like to bbq alot I find cleaning all the fat around the outer edge a real pain in the van, I take it out side with bowl of hot water and do it that way. With very fatty foods we have found that the fat has been known to catch fire around the edge when it collects so deep, some sort of drainage tap in the base would have been a good idea in my opinion. We have also got the huge paella pan which we use loads for chillies, spag bolls and the like. We didnt invest in the lid and never really missed it. Just in the process of buying another for my ex and his wife as they are buying their first van today and have no oven or grill so this should work well for them. ADVENTURE TO GO

Final reason Many gas camping stoves are cheap and nasty affairs and we'd prefer something solid and longlasting. These are the portable models of Cadac camping stoves. It has piezo ignition and adjustable temperature. The domed top attaches as a windshield. 47cm diameter and around 190 for the set Safari Chef 2 The Safari Chef 2 has folding legs that allow you to stand it on the floor or folded on a table. Piezo ignition, lots of accessories and a neat bag. High pressure canister HP or low pressure gas bottle options too LP. 28cm diameter. Around 110 with accessories. It takes a hose and gas bottle, has piezo ignition and all packs down neatly though not as small as some. Around 150. It's foldable, comes with all the accessories we need and has the option of extras such as a baking stone, wok and more. The price is reasonable and a stove powered from a refillable gas bottle is more economical than a throwaway canister and lastly. The stove is also quick to set up and pack away. We've now been using ours for four years and it never lets us down! Within minutes, we'd attached the hose and larger refillable gas cylinder. This LP low pressure version gives higher cooking temperatures, but because of the gas bottle is more suited to car, campervan and caravan users. The HP version which takes canisters is probably better for people wanting to keep weight down. Folded into a small packable piece of cooking kit The overall size of the Cadac in its neat storage bag is about 38cm in diameter and weighs around 3.6kg. Probably not for backpackers, but easy to tuck into a wellloaded car! A windbreak would make a difference. We used all but the baking stone and found the surfaces easy to cook on and easy to clean. It was fairly simple to control the heat once we got the hang of the knob and, although charcoal cooking has its advantages, the speed and lack of smoke was lovely.

Another factor is that many European campsites don't allow charcoal barbecues these days because of the fire risk. The Cadac is more gas stove than barbecue so shouldn't bring an angry owner rushing to your tent. You'll find our recipes below. Meanwhile, what was the verdict No charcoal, so things stay cleaner and you're cooking straight away. Yes! The Safari Chef 2, LP version for us. You'll need a larger model for bigger family meals. There are no lifting tools so that you can swap hot sections as you need them. You'll need gloves. Mind you, because there are no coals to burn down, it cools quickly. Here's our guide to woodburning campstoves. Have a look at our suggestions for fast camp cooking using induction hobs, Instant Pot and more. Strain and leave to cool. Put all the other ingredients in a bowl. Squeeze any water out of the cool bulgur and add the grains to the bowl. Serve with a squeeze of lemon over the top and maybe a yoghurt dipping sauce or garlic mayonnaise. Here's what we had hanging around spring onion kale pak choi's nicer! tenderstem broccoli mushrooms beansprouts garlic chilli Then we mixed the following in a jar two tablespoons of soy sauce and two of vinegar a tablespoon of sweet chilli sauce a pinch of pepper Put a little oil in the Cadac wok or a big frying pan. Get it nice and hot. Add the chunkier vegetables that will take more cooking and cook till they're losing a bit of their crispness. Add the garlic and chilli. Ginger would be good too. Add the rest of the veg and keep it moving. Serve after a few seconds of warming through. If you have some readycooked noodles, you could add these to the stirfry before adding the dressing. Just stir well and heat through. Delicious with crusty bread and a green salad on the side. The only problem is keeping raw fish cool before you cook. Have a look at our article on buying a camping fridge, or even better, camp next to a fishing boat. And a squeeze of lemon can lift the dish.

Go outdoors said return to local shop, but they thought I should send it to Cadac, they had different instructions to the web chat people. Managed to get a replacement, but the screw on the new one was loose. No response from Cadac as I was trying to point out a design flaw. Had to secure the screw in place with Loctite myself. Not impressed. Watch out if you take one of these on holiday Reviewed by Chloe 3rd May, 2019 Great product varied use This product is the handiest item for camping I have purchased, well worth the money and the performance of it is second to none. I will be upgrading in a few years to the taller Cadac. Reviewed by Steve 22nd Apr, 2019 Great allrounder We have had ours now for 2 years and it has proved to be a great purchase. We wanted something easy to set up when out on our narrow boat which was easy to clean and store. The food cooks well and plenty of area to cook for 2. Highly recommended for camping, days out or even home. Reviewed by Les 28th Feb, 2018 Cadac safari 2 After using one of the big cadac for many years our family has grown up and moved on we bought the smaller safari.

Well I was amazed it's a smashing size for the two of us and so versatile. You don't need a cooker when you have one of these. I would recommend this product to any one. Reviewed by bazjaq 30th Nov, 2017 Super little BBQ I reviewed loads of the smaller BBQs over the past few months and finally purchased the Safari 2. It turned out to be a brilliant buy. Im impressed with its versatility and ease of cleaning after dinner. A must for the campervan or campers. It would be a bonus if the hose and regulator came with it. Brilliant! If youve got this you dont need a separate cooker, as this will cook everything that can be fried, grilled or warmed on the hob.really love it! Reviewed by Steaminparker 30th Aug, 2017 Cadac Safari Chef 2 Recently bought the Cadac for use with our motorhome. Very pleased with its compactness, versatility of the different cooking plates, easy to use and clean. The only draw back would be the flimsy legs it stands on. Otherwise a really good buy. Reviewed by Snowden47 28th Aug, 2017 REALLY IS AS GOOD AS ITS REVIEWS Just bought for the family holiday, and we were all very pleased with its ease of use, easy clean, perfect cooking and stores away so neatly afterwards. Very happy that we bought this Reviewed by oldster 12th Aug, 2017 Cadac Safari Chef 2 A tremendous piece of kit. Performs all tasks excellently. The surfaces are genuinely nonstick and easy to clean. Clever design allows easy connection of hose no need for spanners. The drip tray works well as a windshield. Packs down neatly into its well designed bag. Reviewed by Antony 23rd Jul, 2017 Compact Cadac Grill Very good compact Barbeque food just tastes better outside. Cooking controls are great, previous reviews state no regulator included is true, but there is such a varied gas supply per person it is not practical to satisfy everyone. Best bit of kit for this price by far, also brilliant options from pot to grill to BBQ supplied so no end to uses. Reviewed by towball 17th Jun, 2017 Does what it says on the box Nice compact gas BBQ. Complete with different cooking pans. Not too heavy for caravanning. Ideal size for two people. Family would probably need the larger Cadac. Shame it isnt supplied with the hose. What a successful purchase. Had 2 trips away since Easter using the Safari Chef and its a great piece of kit. Such an improvement in time and effort required when compared to our previous tiny charcoal filled bucket BBQ. Really easy to use with clear instructions supplied sturdy, well made and easy to clean due to the high quality nonstick surfaces. All goes back neatly in to the handy carry bag with plenty of space to include the gas pipe which you need to purchase in addition in the bag. We bought a larger, yet still portable, gas bottle which adds to the price significantly but well worth the money. BBQs were a real faff before, but not any more.
